

COMPLIANCE

Senddr gives you peace of mind that your e-Invoices are legal and compliant

Senddr has been created to provide an auditable and verifiable path for your invoices as they travel from your accounting system to that of your customer. Key to achieving this are a number of underlying design principles:

Integrity of Data

Senddr retrieves invoices directly from accounting software where the original data is kept.

When we retrieve this original data Senddr immediately digitally signs and archives a copy.

Thereafter any PDFs or data files generated can be compared to the original for verification.

Authenticity of Origin

To ensure an invoice is real you must be certain that it originated from the correct supplier.

Senddr creates individual 'connections' between suppliers and customers. These connections are verified in advance by both parties.

Senddr will then only accept invoices from those approved connections.

Traceability

Every invoice that passes through Senddr is traced from the original data extracted from the source accounting system through to the final data posted to the destination accounting system.

At all points in this process the processing of that invoice is logged and can be retrieved at any point in the future.
